Dear Patient

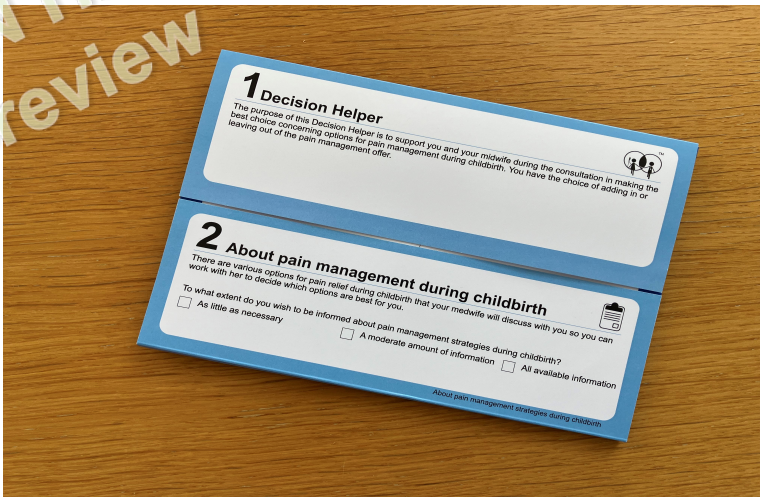

Together with your doctor - you must decide, whether you want radiotherapy for your remaining breast area.

To support the decision, we will be using a DECISION HELPER™. The DECISION HELPER™ is a tool we use together to reach the best decision for you.

FACTS //

A DECISION HELPER™ supports the dialogue between patient and healthcare professionals, when the benefits and harms of examination and treatment options need to be explained. It assists us in finding out, what is particularly important to you.

DECISION HELPER™ preview

This is an example of a DECISION HELPER™

Before the consultation we encourage you to consider the following:

To what extent do you wish to be informed about radiotherapy to the remaining breast?

- ☐ As little as necessary
  - benefits and harms
- ☐ A moderate amount
  - Benefits and harms
  - Consequences of disease relapse
- ☐ All available information
  - Benefits and harms
  - Consequences of disease relapse
  - Statistics: late adverse effects/local resurrence

How far have you come in your decision making process, whether you want to receive radiotherapy?

- ☐ Have not considered the options
- ☐ Considering the options
- ☐ Close to making a decision
- ☐ Have made a decision

Flip →

My thoughts and questions

When we make a decision together about radiotherapy, it is particularly important to understand your personal preferences and know a little about your daily life.

What is your greatest concern in your current situation?

DECISION HELPER™
preview